About Accounts Receivable

ASCENDER Accounts Receivable allows you to:

- Record customer information including customer number, name, and address
- Record invoice information including invoice number, request date, customer purchase order number, quantity, and assigned budget codes
- Print invoices
- Inquire by invoice and customer
- Create credit and debit memos
- Record full and partial payments
- Print customer notices, statements, and aging information

In addition, Accounts Receivable interfaces directly with ASCENDER Finance so that the general ledger is adjusted as soon as an action is performed.
